

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF MICHIGAN
SOUTHERN DIVISION

METROPOLITAN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY,

Plaintiff,

Case No. 1:22-cv-706

v.

HON. ROBERT J. JONKER

LOIS BROWN,

Defendant/Cross-Plaintiff,

v.

KAREN BROWN,

Defendant/Cross-Defendant,

and

CALIANN BROWN and HAYLEY
PARCHER,

Defendants.

ORDER

This is an interpleader action to determine the proper recipient of the ERISA death benefits payable by Metropolitan on behalf of the decedent, Timothy Brown. The main contenders are the decedent's ex-wife, defendant Karen Brown; and his mother, defendant Lois Brown. Also joined in the case are Caliann Brown and Hayley Parcher, the daughters of the decedent and his ex-wife, Karen, and the granddaughters of Lois.

At a Rule 16 conference, the represented parties (Karen and Lois) appeared through counsel, and Caliann and Hayley appeared pro se. Caliann and Hayley are generally supportive of their mother's claim to benefits and oppose the claims of their grandmother. The Court also inquired whether either or both intended to assert a claim on their own behalf, or simply support the claim of their mother against their grandmother. The Court set a deadline of May 15, 2024, for Caliann and Hayley to assert whether either or both intended to file an individual claim.

On May 13, 2024, the Kalamazoo Clerk's Office received a mailing addressed to the undersigned that appears to be from Hayley. It is not signed, however. It appears that Hayley intends to assert a claim for 1/3 of the death benefit, with the other 2/3 to be split equally between her mother (Karen) and her sister, Caliann. To ensure a complete record for the case, the Court is directing the Clerk of Court to file the item exactly as the Court received it.

If Hayley does intend to assert an individual claim, she will need to sign her statement. Also, if the Court has not properly interpreted the intended claim, Hayley should take the opportunity to clarify. Finally, Hayley should outline, to the extent she is able, the legal and factual basis for her expected claim. The Court will set a new deadline of May 24, 2024, for Hayley to submit a signed and updated statement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Dated: May 17, 2024
